- school vacation weeks

The schools in Louisiana are among the poorest in the country. The wake of Hurricane Katrina has left the teachers and students demoralized as well as materially challenged.

Will you help?

We are looking for teachers, teacher's aids, and school librarians. These educators would go in pairs to a Gulf Coast school for the week, living in the community, sharing their skills and being present to the staff and children.

We are also looking for folks interested in education who have other talents, such as drama, music, history or reenacting, to organize and present a dramatic road show that can travel from school to school for assemblies and have spin-off learning centers for schools that would like some classroom follow up in grades 3-5. The topic would be based on some academic theme from their curriculum.

The cost is $950 for airfare, food, ground travel a festive dinner out and some financial donations to participating schools.
